ABLE Rigging has expanded its already vast array of services to include turnkey tower crane operations – Able Rigging will handle everything from engineering and mobilization to logistics, including erection, climbing, disassembly and demobilization. Robert La Chapelle, Jr., a third generation NYC Master Rigger, will oversee ABLE Rigging's rise as the premier licensed and insured tower crane operator in the Tri-State area and entire Northeast.

One recent ABLE Rigging tower crane project involved the complete disassembly of a tower crane. ABLE Rigging commenced disassembly by climbing a Liebherr 540 crane sitting on 24 sections down from its highest elevation of 480 feet over the course of four days. The ABLE Rigging team conducted the final disassembly of the crane, which sat at the United Nations site for over three years, in just less than 16 hours.
